Best Business School

The University of Dayton School of Business Administration was named among the best in Ohio by College Choice, a leader in university rankings and resources.

The “Best Business School” designation is based on academic reputation, student retention, national rankings, tuition and internship opportunities. The University’s business school is recognized for the success of its alumni and the “exciting and competitive” programs it offers that prepare students for career success.

Programs highlighted include the P&G Marketing Challenge, Everest Real Estate Challenge and the business plan competition, which awards $150,000 in cash prizes and $150,000 in-kind support during six rounds that include rounds in Vietnam and China.

“Dayton’s School of Business Administration produces some of the top business leaders in the world,” College Choice writes. “From co-founding and leading businesses in Dayton to monitoring markets across Asia and Europe, graduates of the School of Business Administration use their degrees in a myriad of ways. If you are looking for a wide range of options to use your undergraduate business degree, then the University of Dayton may be the school for you.”
